LAMOLE DI LAMOLE CHIANTI CLASSICO $14.99

2019, Tuscany, Italy. Made with organically farmed grapes, this has been our “Go To” Chianti Classico for a number of vintages. Its color is a deep ruby red. On the palate, the oak, held at bay by the wine’s ample fruit, leaves room for nuances of preserves and of spices, which are in perfect harmony with the bouquet. Excellent with grilled meats and wild game. Pairs nicely with truffles and mature cheeses. The blend is 80% Sangiovese, 10% Cabernet Sauvignon, and 10% Merlot. 750 ml. Bottle

OLIVER'S MARKET SPIRIT FEATURE OF THE WEEK

RUTTE DUTCH DRY GIN $15.99

Rutte has a long history; recipes have been passed on from generation to generation. Whereas the industry was looking for cheaper methods and materials during the last century, this 'innovation' completely passed by the Rutte family. And that's a good thing because it means old recipes and craftsmanship have been preserved. Even though the distillery has not been in the hands of the Rutte family since the 1990s, the tradition is kept alive and the company stills follows the same unique distilling process as ancestor Simon did in his days. 750 ml. ## OLIVER'S MARKET CRAFT BREWERY OF THE WEEK

Delirium is our Craft Brewery of the week. Brewing beer is a centuries-old tradition at the site of the Appelhoek in Melle. The earliest evidence of brewing activity in this location dates back as far as 1654. In 1904 Léon Huyghe starts working at the local brewery. "Our beers are nature's gift to man. We have a moral obligation to not only be grateful but also to think and act in a sustainable way, to do business with the utmost care for people and the environment.
