SAVE 25% ON ALL LOCAL PRODUCE

“Oliver’s Market is proud to partner with F.E.E.D. Cooperative, the first farmer owned Co-op, to bring the very best locally grown produce to our customers. Over the last 10 years we have grown our relationship to the point that we now purchase over $1 million in local produce each year.

F.E.E.D. Cooperative provides an efficient, streamlined connection between local farms and our stores, making it easier to source fresh, seasonal produce directly from the people who grow it. This partnership reduces transportation time, keeps products fresher, and strengthens our regional food system. This is truly the highest quality produce we can purchase. Nothing is going to be fresher than ordering the day before and seeing on our shelves the next day.

This partnership is a ‘win’ for us in many other ways, too. Supporting local agriculture has always been at the heart of our company mission and history. Every local purchase helps sustain family farms, strengthens our community, and gives our customers the opportunity to enjoy the freshest produce our region has to offer. We’re proud to invest in local growers and celebrate the incredible bounty of Sonoma County, which our work with F.E.E.D Cooperative makes possible.”

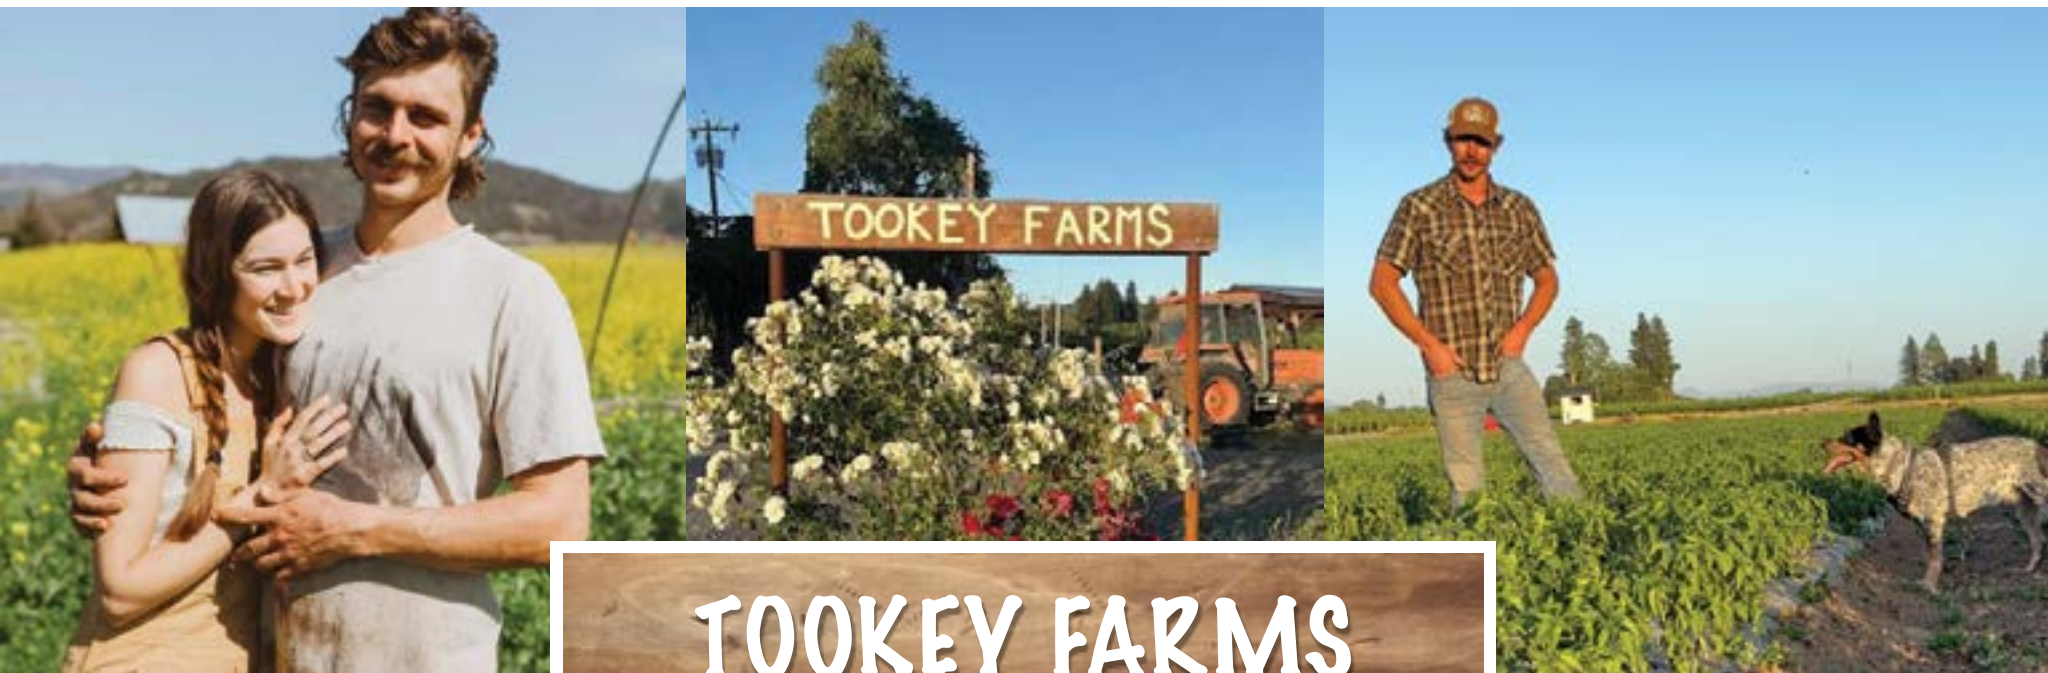

MIKE PETERSON,
PRODUCE COORDINATOR

HELP US CELEBRATE OUR LOCAL GROWERS

We receive the majority of our local produce from F.E.E.D. Cooperative during the peak of season. With their help small local farms connect with buyers in retail and commercial markets.

REYES FARM

PRODUCED IN WINDSOR

HEIRLOOM TOMATOES, CHERRY TOMATOES, BEEFSTEAK TOMATOES, EARLY GIRL TOMATOES & SUMMER SQUASH

Before starting Reyes Farm, Manuel Reyes worked with food in a different capacity: first in the restaurant industry and then as a private chef, spending many years in the industry transforming fresh ingredients into elaborate dishes. Growing up in Michoacan, Mexico, Manuel was exposed to farming at a young age and dreamed of working outdoors and more closely with the land. Thus, in 2009, he started his agricultural journey on land in Healdsburg where he grew strawberries, dahlias, and eggs. By 2013, he relocated his farm to Windsor, in Sonoma County, where he initially leased and eventually purchased 6.8 acres of land. Manuel transitioned to full-time farming in 2022; now, his farm produces approximately 30 different crops, including eggs, tomatoes, and strawberries. Manuel sells his produce and eggs at local farmers markets across Sonoma County, connecting with the community he nourishes with each sale he makes.

OLIVER’S MARKET CRAFT BREWERY OF THE WEEK

FOGBELT
BREWING COMPANY

Fogbelt Brewing Co. crafts an exceptional lineup of redwood-themed beers, led by the remarkably crisp Riverfront IPA. This 6.5% ABV cold-infused brew is fermented with a German yeast for a clean finish bursting with juicy Nelson, Bravo, and Citra hop flavors, taking its name from a massive 352-foot-tall redwood tree in Humboldt Redwoods State Park. Standing alongside this powerhouse is Fogbelt's flagship Del Norte IPA, a 7.0% ABV West Coast style that delivers vibrant tropical fruit and citrus aromas backed by a classic piney finish. Completing this diverse trio is their Red Tail Ale, a legendary 6.4% ABV American amber ale that pays homage to the historic recipe that helped spark the early craft beer movement.

Local craft beer lovers can look forward to tasting their exceptional brews firsthand, as Fogbelt will be pouring a selection of their beers at this year's Gravenstein Apple Fair in Sebastopol on August 8th and 9th.
