OLIVER'S MARKET CRAFT BREWERY OF THE WEEK

Double Dry-Hopped Pliny the Elder stands as an absolute masterpiece of West Coast brewing, taking an already iconic recipe to explosive new heights. By utilizing a meticulous two-stage process that packs a massive four pounds of hops per barrel, this variant extracts an unparalleled depth of hop character saturated with vibrant notes of stone fruit, tropical pineapple, and deep, dank pine resin without harsh bitterness. This aggressive hopping schedule results in an incredibly aromatic profile and a noticeably softer, smoother mouthfeel, delivering a profoundly intense sensory experience that asserts itself as a true bucket-list beer for enthusiasts worldwide.

STS Pilsner stands on the lighter end of the spectrum, dropping the heavy hop intensity in favor of a remarkably crisp, clean, and snappy German-style finish. The exceptionally smooth-drinking Velvet Glow anchors this side of the lineup, offering a classic, malt-forward Munich-style Helles profile rich in subtle bready notes.
